The new location, a shopping center, is unusual for a county facility but offers sufficient parking and close access to bus transportation. Families who are applying for Food Stamp benefits as well as those who are presently participating in the program will be served at the new location. The phone number is 985-3103.

Each weekend members of the Baldy View Racing Pigeon Club search the sky for the first sight of their racing homing pigeons returning to the loft.

Virgil Beck of Montclair, Jim Moffat of Cucamonga, and Jack Byers and Archie Bayne of Claremont will all be hoping for winning times when their racing homers complete the 280-mile race from Merced Sunday.

All but Moffat have had first-place finishers this season. Byers won the 150-mile race from Delano, Beck the 180-mile race from Tulare and Bayne the 230-mile race from Fresno. Moffat's birds placed second, third and fourth in the Fresno race.

Another local flier, Ray Patterson of Upland, will have to wait until September for the "young bird" season to race his pigeons.

Patterson, who recently moved from Ontario, can no longer race his older birds because they automatically return to their former loft location.

When a loft is moved, the flier has to train new pigeons and the experienced racers can be used only for breeding, he said.

Racing homers can fly 700 miles in one day with an average speed of 45 miles per hour. Experienced birds fly 16 hours without stopping even for water.

For each race birds are banded on the leg with a rubber "countermark" and then loaded into a specially designed trailer for transportation to the starting point.

All the pigeons, as many as 12,000 in one race, are liberated at the same time, said William Pearce of Pomona. The pigeons circle above the liberation point until they get their bearings and then start flying home.

In the longer races, such as the 600-mile Klamath Falls race, pigeons fly constantly for 14-16 hours before reaching their home lofts. The countermark is removed from the returning pigeon and inserted in a sealed clock which records the arrival time to the exact second.

If the pigeon doesn't come directly to the loft, the flier can lose the race said Patterson who noted that races have been won by a fraction of a second.

Some pigeons are useless for racing because they can survive in the wild and come in days late from the race, said Bayne, who is president of the club. Most pigeons come straight to the loft because they have been flying for a full night and are hungry and thirsty, he added.

Patterson uses "widowhood racing" to encourage his pigeons to race well. Widowhood is a Belgian system which uses nature against the pigeon, he said.

When the cocks have been taken out for training, the flier widows them by removing the hen and eggs from the nest. On race day the cock is allowed to see the hen and eggs in the nest. Patterson said the cocks come home much faster because their whole attention is on returning to the nest.

Some fliers use natural systems. Patterson said the hens fly best when the eggs are 10 days old because "life is coming" in the eggs.

Others fly the cock to the babies. "Once they have started to feed the youngsters, the cocks will break their necks to get home," he noted.

Fliers seldom lose experienced birds during a race, but the loss rate for young birds is close to 20 per cent, Bayne said.

He said young birds become confused and fly to the wrong loft. Even experienced birds can become lost in a rain and hail storm such as the one which accompanied the Tulare race April 5-6.

During that storm a San Diego pigeon followed Bayne's flock into the loft. The loft owner holds the lost pigeon until it is claimed by the owner, Bayne said.

Racing homers are carefully bred and raised. "They're not your palm tree pigeons," noted Pearce, who is past president of the club. Pearce has raced pigeons for more than 50 years.

Some fliers breed birds by their "strains" or breeds, but Pearce breeds "winners to winners" without considering the strain.

He judges birds by touch, feeling for muscle and confirmation. Archie Bayne picks winning birds by examining their eyes. Good eyesight is especially important, he noted.

Some fliers breed for color and avoid birds with white feathers in the wing, Patterson said. Like Pearce, he breeds winners to winners. When different strain colors are bred, female pigeons take the color of the father and males take the color of the mother, he noted.

He begins training four-month-old pigeons by releasing them a mile from the loft. Then he stretches the distance, releasing them three, five and then 10 miles from the loft. When the young pigeons have been trained to return from 100 miles, they are ready for racing, Patterson said.

Even the young pigeons are loft-oriented. "My pigeons have never gone in the neighbors' yards. They come to my garage or the loft perch," Patterson said.

Sunshine, ventilation and cleanliness are the most important things in raising pigeons, he said. Patterson's pigeons are fed and exercised at the same time each day and their lofts are cleaned several times a day.

During exercise periods the pigeons fly about 35 miles and come home when they're tired, he said. His pigeons have vitamins in their water and the best feed possible. Patterson said the person who has healthy pigeons and a good routine wins races.

Some fliers take better care of their birds than their families, he said. Pigeon racing can be a family sport. Many couples fly competing pigeons and a 10-year-old is as likely to win as an adult flier, Pearce said.

The Baldy View Club belongs to the Mountain Concourse which has clubs from Pasadena to Norco. For information call Bayne, 626-1477 or publicity coordinator Frank Gagnon, 987-3697.

FLIGHT LOFT — Ray Patterson checks the grit supplies in his racing pigeon flight loft. When the loft is completed, it will have running water and electricity. At the finish of a race, pigeons land on the perch above Patterson to enter the loft. He also has a widowers' loft where racing pigeons are separated from their mates and young so they will race better. Patterson is a member of the Baldy View Racing Pigeon Club which includes members from throughout the West End. (Photo by Lynne Locke)

Flower Circle Association

Upland club to hold anniversary luau

The Filipino-American Flower Circle Association of Upland will celebrate its third anniversary with a Philippine luau noon Sunday at Colony Park, Mountain Avenue and W. Fifth Street, Ontario.

Marissa Garner, a native of Manila, formed the women's organization to work for harmony between her native and adopted cultures.

The Flower Circle group is named for a traditional May festival "honoring the Blessed Virgin," Mrs. Garner said. The occasion is celebrated in the Philippines with religious flower processions.

The luau will include a buffet of Philippine food and decorations of fresh fruit and flowers. The menu is adobo (marinated chicken, pork, beef or fish), fried lumpia (thin pastry filled with beef and vegetables in sweet and sour sauce), pancit (noodles sauted with chicken, pork or beef) and a tropical fruit dessert. Entertainment for the picnic-style luau will include Samoan hula dancers or Philippine folk dancers. Traditional luaus are held at the beach by moonlight, Mrs. Garner noted.

Malayan, Indonesian, Oriental and Spanish nationalities give the Philippines its color and customs, she said. Filipinos speak 48 different dialects including English and Spanish, but 90 per cent are Catholic, Mrs. Garner added.

More than 2,000 Filipinos live in San Bernardino County, said Mrs. Garner. Some work in the citrus groves and as cooks. Many are well educated and have continued the careers they started in the Philippines, she added.

The Flower Circle works to help newly arrived Filipinos and encourage them to become citizens. The group also assists with civic projects to improve Upland. Mrs. Garner said she hopes the group will be invited to participate in the Bicentennial celebration and all other community projects.

A recent club project was a Philippine fashion show at the Chaffey Communities Cultural Center. Mrs. Garner said the group hopes to demonstrate handicrafts in the future.

They also participated in the recent Walk for the Handicapped, sponsored by the Upland-Ontario Altruism Club. For information on the Flower Circle or luau call 985-8107.

Chaffey College Community Education will offer a tuition free, non-graded adult education class in interior design, beginning April 17. The class will meet at De Anza Community Center, 1405 S. Fern Ave., Ontario, 7 - 10 p.m. Thursday evenings.

Two Upland Boy Scouts awarded Eagle badges

A recent Eagle Scout ceremony was the highlight of scouting experiences for Keith Lair and David Boucher. The two members of Upland Troop 631 were awarded their eagles after months of work and preparation.

Each earned 24 merit badges on such topics as first aid, citizenship, environmental science, sports, map and compass skills and bird watching. They also completed Eagle Scout projects.

Boucher painted the stage for the Upland Boys' Club, which sponsors Troop 631. Lair organized a recruiting program including demonstrations of scout skills for local elementary schools.

The scouts also passed written and oral exams before the eagles were awarded. Highlights of the eagle program included presentation of letters from President Gerald Ford and Senator Alan Cranston.

The two scouts invited Robert Lonev, track and cross-country coach at Upland High School, to give the Eagle address. The honor guard included Joseph Prologo, David Sears, Mike Sherman and Douglas Van Guilder.

Lair, who is senior patrol leader, said the best part of scouting is helping younger boys learn the things he was taught by older scouts.

He also likes outdoor activities and assisted with programs at summer camp. Lair was one of the first area scouts to earn the new map and compass badge.

Boucher listed canoe trips and camping as his favorite scout activities. As a former Minnesota resident, he studied the thousands of birds that pass along the Mississippi migration route.

The future for the two scouts includes assisting with the troop and earning their palms by completing extra merit badges.

Classes in "Fascinating Girl" and "Fascinating Womanhood" will begin the week of April 20 at the Chase-King Personal Development Center in Upland.

A free introductory lesson will be offered for both classes: "Fascinating Girl" at 8 p.m. April 22 or at 10 a.m. April 23, and "Fascinating Womanhood" at 10 a.m. or 8 p.m. on April 23.

"Fascinating Girl," taught by Priscilla Brandt, is for single girls and women over the age of 18. The course is designed to provide a step-by-step guide on how to gain the attention and interest of men and eventually win the particular man of your choice.

Mrs. Brandt says, "It will be an aid to every woman who desires to be attractive and to eventually marry. This 8-week course is for you if you want to understand men—their characteristics, peculiarities and sensitive masculine nature—if you want to be the ideal woman from a man's point of view; to develop greater confidence around men; to discern if this is 'Mr. Right' for you."

Mrs. Power says "The course shows simply, but clearly, the way to married happiness."

Julian Lopez hired

Selected Cucamonga superintendent

The current number two administrator in the Colton school system recently was named superintendent of the Cucamonga School District.

Julian T. Lopez, 40, was selected from 60 applicants.

Lopez currently is assistant superintendent in the Colton Joint Unified School District. He directs instruction and curriculum.

"My strongest asset is in the area of instruction, specifically in basic skills programs — reading, math and bilingual education," Lopez said after his appointment.

Lopez said he will attempt to begin working in the Cucamonga district during the budget preparation process, hopefully sometime in May.

The superintendent-designate said he has taught at all levels of education, from elementary school to university. He has held principal and counselor positions at a high school in the Calexico Unified School District.

Julian T. Lopez

He was in the Calexico district from 1959 to 1970. Lopez said he was project director for one of the state's first bilingual programs. Other duties at Calexico included managing special programs as supervisor of pupil personnel services. Early in his education career, Lopez was a social science teacher and coach of high school football, basketball and tennis teams.

In his five year as Calexico High School football coach, Lopez led his teams to three conference titles.

Born in eastern Arizona, Lopez resides in Colton with his wife and three children, ages 6 to 12.

Lopez received a master of arts degree in school administration in 1962 from Western New Mexico University.

Lopez will replace Raymond Trujillo, present Cucamonga superintendent, who was rejected in his bid for contract renewal by a 3-2 vote of the Cucamonga school board.

The school board selected Lopez following an executive session on Thursday.

Student scholarships

College funds to be awarded

In recognition of academic excellence and leadership ability, college scholarships have been established in the name of the Chaffey Trust Fund to be granted this year and annually to seniors graduating from high schools in the Chaffey Union High School District.

Each high school in the Chaffey District will nominate one boy and one girl each to compete as finalists for district scholarships of $1,000 for first; $500 for second; and $250 for each of the other nominees. Each high school determines the candidates in their own way.

Criteria for selection of winners on both levels will be academic record, participation in student activities, potential for collegiate success, written statement of purpose (not to exceed 250 words) and a personal interview with the scholarship committee.

The Chaffey Trust is dedicated to assisting the high school district. This assistance has enabled the expansion of district properties and buildings when district funds were distressed.

The trust fund amounts to $155,000. These funds earn an interest of approximately $5,000 per year. On December 7, 1967, a scholarship program was established to provide awards to ten outstanding students in the Chaffey District.

Applications are still being considered and interviews are now being conducted to nominate students from each high school. Interested students are asked to see their counselor.

The parachute game is a favorite with Valencia School (Upland) kindergartners. Students run, skip and jump with the parachute floating above them.

Pulled tight around their shoulders the parachute makes a snug tent enclosing the 30 children. They shake the parachute gently to make waves or shake it very hard to make the sound of popping corn.

At the end of the game, the students flap the parachute as they run toward the center of the circle. When they release the parachute, it rises into the air and then floats gently down over them.

The game is a learning activity with definite goals, according to Jan Bell, teacher team leader in the Early Childhood Education (ECE) program at Valencia School. She said students develop gross and fine motor skills as they learn creative movements.

Students learn listening skills as they follow teacher Nancy Pefley's directions. They learn colors and numbers as well as concepts of right and left, over and under during different parts of the game.

Mrs. Pefley also uses the parachute game to identify the children who need individual help in learning to skip or hop. The game is only one part of the ECE program which includes all kindergarten through third-grade students at the school.

David Geminder (below) lifts the parachute overhead and prepares to change places with a student across the circle.

English games

By Lynne Locke

Foothill Knolls School fifth and sixth graders are learning basic English by creating and playing English games ranging from "Parts of Speech Bingo" to "Build a Sentence Monopoly."

Making an English game was an optional assignment. Students enjoyed the game so much, everyone made one, said teacher Joe Sheehy.

Students of Carole White and Ethel Fleck also got "wrapped up in English game mania," Sheehy noted. Learning by playing games is a new educational theory, said Mrs. Fleck. Children learn more effectively when they're interested, she added.

The teachers said the English program is showing definite results. Two girls from San Salvador, who entered the class with very little English, were finalists in a recent spelling bee, Mrs. Fleck said.

"We're really proud of the kids. They do a lot of work," added Sheehy. Class members studied the parts of speech and then used their learning in creating and playing the games.

Students made game boards, game rules and instruction cards. Some students even made equipment such as game boxes and dice. The paper dice are easily crushed in a moment of excitement, noted Sheehy.

Instruction cards tell students to name a part of speech or lose a turn. A sudden death card says "Name a verb or lose the game." The best thing about the games is that they are all playable, Sheehy said.

The teachers have a hard time getting students to work on other subjects because the games are so fun, said Mrs. Fleck.

Students also are using some unusual methods to learn arithmetic and geometry. In a recent lesson students enlarged a picture by using a grid system that taught them measuring skills and proportions.

The learning is being reinforced by house plans students presently are working on. Each student is drawing the floorplan of his or her own home complete with furniture.

Scholarship contenders announced

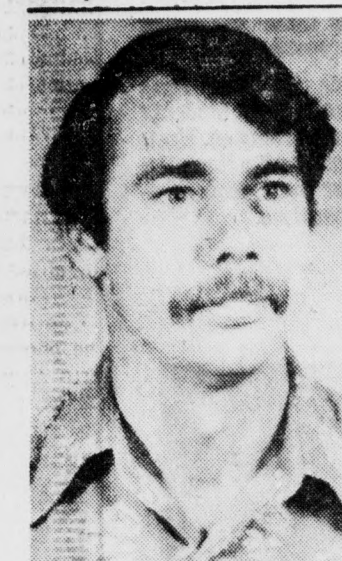

Montclair High School seniors Matt Burkhardt and Brent Halford have been named semi-finalists in the Southern California Edison Company's scholarship program.

Selection of semi-finalists is based on scores on the scholastic aptitude test which each candidate must take. From the hundreds of students who compete, the 10 with the highest scores are named semi-finalists. Those 10 are then interviewed by a panel of community leaders who select the 2 most outstanding students. They are each awarded $2000 annually during their four college years. The scholarships must be used at designated area private colleges.

If selected as a finalist, Matt will use his scholarship at Claremont Men's College. Matt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.R. Burkhardt of Montclair. Brent, the son of Mr. and Mrs. F.C. Halford of Upland, will use his scholarship at Harvey Mudd College if he is named a winner. Both Brent and Matt were also semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholastic Aptitude Tests competition earlier this year.

Mrs. Nicholas Kelch has received the Vernon Junior High School Honorary Service Award. Mrs. Kelch served 10 years on the El Camino P.T.A. Board and two years on the Vernon P.T.A. Board. She has participated with Camp Fire Girls for five years and with Pop Warner Football two years. Mrs. Kelch also chaired a national campfire pilot program on membership growth for the Camp Fire Girls.

Alta Loma High School electronics and math teacher Bobby J. Fikes has been named as recipient of a Bell & Howell Schools Fellowship. Fikes will receive all text materials and laboratory equipment included in a Bell & Howell Schools Electronics Communications educational program. Recipients of the program have been nominated by high school principals in recognition of past teaching performance and as a means of updating knowledge of the state-of-the-art.

For entry blanks and more detailed contest rules, contact the Ontario City Library or the Inland Library System office, 104 W. Fourth St., San Bernardino, 92415. Contest deadline is May 1. The phone number at the Ontario City Library is 984-2758, Ext. 23.

What's yours worth?

Good lawn has hard cash value

A recent random survey of real estate brokers across the nation indicates that the lawn around a house has a measurable cost value — and it may be a lot higher than most people think.

As reported in a recent issue of "Lawn Care," the survey, made by an independent research organization, shows that only 6 per cent of the brokers questioned thought that the condition of the lawn in influencing a home buyer's decision was not important; 58 per cent thought it was important; 36 per cent thought it very important.

Comments were interesting. "When the lawn is taken care of, the house is taken care of, too." "A woman looks at a house from outside. If it looks good she'll go in, if not, chances are she won't look at it." "If we have two houses of equal price, the one with the good lawn will go faster." One broker summed it up in four words, "First impressions are lasting."

When it came to putting a cash value on a thick, weed-free lawn, the figures varied all the way from nothing to $10,000, with an arithmetic average of $1,322. On a $35,000 house that is 3.77 per cent. Applied to a $20,000 house, the same percentage would represent $754. On a $60,000 home it would be $2,262.

Whether these estimates are too high or too low, they do suggest that, quite apart from its beauty, a good lawn has a cash value far in excess of the relatively small cost involved in its upkeep.

Guidelines for garden safety

Maintaining a neatly manicured lawn can be made easier and more pleasant through the use of electric appliances, such as lawn mowers, edger - trimmers or hedge-trimmers.

However, the disregard of safety considerations can make the usage of these items an unpleasant experience. Underwriters Laboratories Inc., an independent, not-for-profit organization testing for public safety, urges your observance of safety rules when using outdoor appliances. For an injury-free gardening season, UL offers the following recommendations:

- Keep the work area clean.
- Never use electrical appliances in damp or wet locations.
- Keep all visitors, especially children, a safe distance away from the work area.
- Store appliance in high, dry places when not in use, and

Guide to better lawn care

Knowing when to put what on the lawn is a problem for many homeowners, faced with the myriad of products available today. To reduce confusion and help the shopper get more value per dollar spent, O.M. Scott & Sons has published a concise eight page booklet, "1975 Guide to a Better Lawn."

Prepared by the editors of Lawn Care magazine, the booklet includes a seasonal calendar of key treatments, advice on how much time should be spent on lawn treatments and how to get lawn equipment ready for spring. A free copy is available at most retail stores carrying Scott's lawn products. Or it can be obtained by writing to Scott's, Dept. LG, Marysville, Ohio 43040.

Grapes thrive in home garden

In a state where the grape is a major agricultural crop, it is no wonder why so many Californians grow this tasty treat in their home gardens. It thrives throughout the Golden State, bearing abundant crops in all, but perhaps, the coolest gardens of any coastal area. And, even there, it will ripen its fruit if planted against a sunny wall — where the maximum amount of heat can be trapped.

Grapes require little care; they are relatively pest free, and while they require an annual pruning, this is an easily fulfilled requirement.

For those who would like to grow grapes, but feel they lack the space, the California Association of Nurserymen points out that grapes can be trellised against the wall of a house or garage — or on a fence. Or, up and over an arbor.

There are two main grape families grown in California — those of European origin from which is derived the bulk of commercial table and wine grape production; and those that are native to the eastern United States. Thompson Seedless, Tokay, Muscat, Black Monukka and Ribien are among the many European varieties. Concord is probably the best-known of the American varieties. In selecting grapes for your home garden, the best approach is to seek the advice of your nurseryman as to the best varieties for the area. This is especially true in coastal climates, where requirements for a particular variety may, or may not be met.

Nurseries have grape vines available this month in containers and in bare root form. They also have various cane berries which also do well in many parts of the state. The gardener who is confused by the difference between Blackberries, Youngberries, Loganberries and Boysenberries can take solace in the fact that they are all blackberries of one sort or another and that he will not be remiss in defining them as such. Culturally, they all have the same needs.

Trailing varieties are widely planted and their culture consists of training them on a two wire trellis, four or five feet high. New canes of one year's growth produce the berries the following year. The practice, then, is to cut out the old canes after they have produced. Wind the new canes on the trellis — getting them off the ground where they have been allowed to grow until ready for trellising. You get no crop this first year, but plenty thereafter.

Church News

Christ Lutheran

Following the morning services at 8:15 and 10:45 a.m., youth of Christ Lutheran Church, Chino, will have an outing to Mt. Baldy, to be followed with a barbecue and an election.

The church is located at 5500 Francis Ave., one block east of Central Avenue, where a tower and lighted cross are visible at all time. Nurseries, parking and a 10:45 a.m. junior church for children are available Sunday.

Bible classes for all ages will meet at 9:30 a.m. The pastor's Bible class welcomes visitors to their study of the Book of Acts, a thrilling account of earliest church history held in common by all Christians.

The sermon of the Rev. Aaron Plueger announced for this Sunday is "Wondrous Sovereign of the Sea."

United Methodist

The Annual Spring Rummage Sale, sponsored by the United Methodist Women of La Verne, will be held 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday at the church, 3205 D St.

Among items for sale will be clothes for all ages, dishes, books, knick-knacks, toys, records and furniture. Refreshments and baked goods will also be available.

Joyce Slagle, president, said, "Proceeds will go to our pledge to missions, community welfare, and needs of our local church."

Women's Task Force

The Women's Task Force of Claremont United Methodist Church is sponsoring a series of Sunday morning programs themed "Rise Up, Oh Women of God; Have Done with Lesser Things" 10:15-11 a.m. April 20-May 18.

The programs, designed for both women and men, deal with various aspects of women and Christianity. Sunday's topic, "Liberation Theology and Women," will deal with biblical and theological interpretations and the new awareness of women. Speaker Anne Bennett is a Protestant church woman who has been active for women's rights, social justice and peace in Vietnam.

Following programs include New Testament views of women, worship services, sexism in Sunday school, and society in the future. Programs, held in the church's round building, are open to all area residents.

Deeper Life Conference

Ernest J. Cline of La Verne was among more than 1500 ministers and Christians from various denominations who registered for the 10th Annual World Deeper Life Conference in San Diego Jan. 7-11.

Upland United Methodist

Thirteen members of the Upland United Methodist Church Senior High Christian Covenant Youth participated in their annual Easter week workteam recently. This year the group traveled to Arizona.

The Rev. Magee Wilkes of Grace United Methodist Church in Mesa, Arizona invited the Upland youths to visit his church. The youth spent Palm Sunday in Mesa. On Monday and Tuesday they toured the Grand Canyon. The rest of the week was spent painting the Methodist church and parsonage in Kearny, Arizona.

Highlights of the week included a Maundy Thursday Service of Darkness, a youth rally and an initiation of "first time" team members.

Workteam members were Rick Dahlin, Curt Fonken, Fred Keser, Bob Pasma, Chip Sanborn, Wendy Schulze, Shaun Seaman, Ty Slyder, Ellie Tiller, Stephanie Van Noy and Brant Ziegler. Youth counselors, who were chosen unanimously by the youth to have shown the most responsibility and leadership this year, were Vicki Campbell and Jeri Ziegler.

Adult counselors were Jim Rickey, Connie Calderhead and the Rev. Bob Calderhead.

MILK & CRACKERS -- WHO WANTS TO HALF LIVE

By DR. W. P. HELZER, D.C.

Who wants to half live? After all, when the normal appetite cannot be satisfied because of the fear that certain foods bring about acute upsets, a person really isn't living his life to the fullest extent.

Digestive defects create this sort of half life. As I've noted, in addition to the suffering, the sharp pangs of heartburn, the gnawing ache of ulcers and the many other ills of digestive upset, there is an inability to eat normally. In addition, the demand of nature for a well-balanced diet cannot be met.

It's a mistake to always blame the stomach for digestive disorders. When a digestive problem lays one low, many people are prone to consider it as 'stomach trouble' and it often is. However, just as often as not the ailment has its origin in another part of the digestive tract, of which the stomach is only a member. Two principal functions must follow the eating of a meal if digestion is to proceed properly: the muscular contraction (the mixing and propelling process), and an adequate flow of digestive juices.

Both of these functions depend upon the stimulus of nerve action. Improperly functioning nerves are responsible for many digestive disorders that are not attributable to unwise diet.

Most such disorders are a product of reduced nerve function, but stomach ulcers may be due to either under- or over-active nerves.

It should be obvious that crackers and milk or similar diets are not the answer to this trouble. They are only temporary stop-gaps designed to offer the digestive tract the least possible work—more or less on the hope that the condition will correct itself. I might add, statistics show this seldom happens.

Normal nerve function is the first requisite for normal digestion. Any irregularity is evidence that there probably is interference somewhere along the line of nerve supply and this must be corrected before nature can restore normal function.

Quite frankly, since our profession specializes in restoring normal nerve function, we employ the logical corrective method for digestive disorders.

After all, once normal functioning has been renewed the problems will disappear. This can be brought about quickly in the average acute condition and persistent treatment will usually bring a complete correction in even a chronic disorder.

Of course, we also assist in the selection of a proper diet. But make no mistake about it, diet alone is not the answer. And it is very important that a person not allow a digestive disturbance to become a chronic disorder.

Salads from leftovers need new taste and look

Price-conscious cooks are beginning to squeeze every penny's worth of edibility from their food purchases. One way to do this and not court too many gripes about "leftovers again" from the family is to mix up less-expensive salads that are good to look at, good to taste and good for your health.

Hamberry Salad

6 large navel oranges
2 cups diced cooked ham
1/3 cup sliced scallions
1 can (5 ounces) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup condensed chicken broth
1/2 cup cup jellied granberry sauce
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 tablespoon soy sauce

1 clove garlic, mashed
Iceberg lettuce cubes or other fresh lettuce

Slice off 3 from top of each orange. Cut a thin slice from bottom of each orange to allow them to stand straight. Scoop out pulp of oranges. Reserve orange shells. Dice scraped out orange segments. In a bowl mix diced oranges with ham, scallions, water chestnuts, celery. In a blender combine broth, sauce, salad oil, soy sauce and garlic or mix with rotary beater. Whirl until smooth and pour over ham mixture. Chill mixture until ready to serve. Spoon ham mixture into reserved orange shells.

Place filled oranges on chilled serving plates and surround with lettuce cubes. Spoon remaining salad, if any, and remaining salad dressing over lettuce cubes. Makes 6 servings.

Cran-Orange Chicken Salad

6 to 8 large outer red and green cabbage leaves
6 cups each shredded green and red cabbage
1 onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
2 cups chopped celery
4 cups diced cooked chicken
Dressing:
1 cup (1/2 pint) sour cream
1 cup mayonnaise

1 cup cranberry-orange relish
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon celery seeds
Salt

Remove outer cabbage leaves; set aside. In a large bowl mix shredded cabbages, onion, green pepper, celery and chicken. Add sour cream, mayonnaise, relish, vinegar and celery seeds. Toss mixture until all ingredients are well coated with dressing. Season mixture to taste with salt, if necessary. Line a large salad bowl with reserved cabbage leaves, alternating colored leaves. Fill bowl with salad. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 6 servings.

Here's a salad that is as good to eat as it is to look at! The trick is to perk up the routine by using cranberry sauce or relishes. This gives the salads an elegant air and gives the vegetables a new flavor treat.

Soy beans popularity is growing

The use of soy, soy beans, soy sauce, and various other soy products and by products is growing daily in America.

Soy is becoming better known as an economical way of stretching more expensive protein sources such as meat and eggs. Since soy itself is a source of good quality protein, it's a nutritious alternative.

To help people see where soybeans can slip themselves deliciously into family meals, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has published a new booklet called Soybeans in Family Meals. A copy may be obtained for 35 cents by writing Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colorado, 81009.

The booklet includes buying, storing and cooking tips for vegetable type green and dry soybeans, soy flour and grits, soy milk, soybean curd, and soybean mash or pulp. The recipes include many main dishes, salads, soups, vegetables, breads, sauces and various desserts.

Other helpful information for those just getting acquainted with soy includes the fact that soybeans are in the markets in late summer and early fall and make a tasty vegetable. Canned soybeans are also sold year round in most areas. Dry soybeans are usually available all year and are prepared for eating in the same way as other dry beans.

Soybean sprouts can be bought or grown at home. They're good in salads and can be served as a vegetable. Soy milk, prepared from dried soybeans, may be used in place of cow's milk in many recipes and can be used as a beverage, hot or cold.

Soy protein concentrate, protein isolate, and textured protein are part of the new soy developments and are sold as protein extenders to be used, for example, to stretch the meat in a meatloaf.

Don't let potatoes spoil

Potatoes should be kept in a cool, dark place that's well ventilated. Although ideal temperatures are 45 to 50 degrees, potatoes will keep well at room temperature for a week. The warmer temperatures do encourage sprouting and shrivelling, however, which cause waste. Do not refrigerate potatoes, though, because at temperatures below 40, the potato's starch turns to sugar, causing it to turn a dark color when cooked. Avoid exposing potatoes to light, too, which causes the potato to turn green. Green spots are bitter tasting and must be cut off before cooking.

Flour does have nutritional value

It's a fallacy that white bread and white flour have no nutritional value, says the California Dietetic Association, Inland Empire District.

White bread is white because the bran and germ (which contain many nutrients) have been removed in milling. Normally after milling the flour in bread is enriched with thiamin, riboflavin, niacin and iron, the dietitians explain.

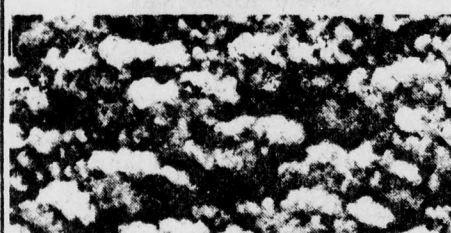

However, not all nutrients are returned to the milled flour.

STARS — Waldo Pepper, played by Robert Redford, tries to impress a small-town girl, Mary Beth McIlhenny, played by Susan Sarandon, with tall tales of his World War I exploits in "The Great Waldo Pepper."

'The Great Waldo Pepper'

HANGING ON — Robert Redford, playing Waldo Pepper in Universal's "The Great Waldo Pepper," hangs on

movie co-stars Bo Stevenson, Bo Brundin, Margot Kidder and Geoffrey Lewis. Hill produced and directed the drama about post-World War I barnstormers.

The young aviators the 1920s provide the inspiration for the new George Roy Hill film, "The Great Waldo Pepper," for Universal. The barnstormers made a precarious living flying from town to town, giving sky rides to awe-struck country folk and amazing the populace with daring acrobatics. They provided thrills by wing-walking, car-to-plane transfers, and intricate aerial maneuvers.

The young flyers were more than daredevils. Their exploits and expertise paved the way for modern commercial aviation. Such aviators as Charles Lindbergh, Clyde Pangborn, Wiley Post and Roscoe Turner transformed an exciting novelty into a way of life in a few short years.

Producer-director George Roy Hill, who is a flyer and aviation buff, conceived the story of "The Great Waldo Pepper."

"These men provided the bridge between two eras," Hill said. "Many of them went by horse and buggy to a recruiting station and found themselves in the air a few weeks later. They were never the same again."

"The Great Waldo Pepper," is the story of one of these men. Like other flyers of the period, he could not face the prospect of a life on the ground.

The idea for the movie came to Hill seven years ago while he was directing "Thoroughly Modern Millie." After a few conversations with Frank Tallman, ace Hollywood pilot in charge of aerial stunts, Hill began to develop the story line.

"The Great Waldo Pepper" in its translation to the screen is the most authentic aviation drama ever filmed, said Hill. When Robert Redford is seen upside-down in a period Jenny, it is actually Redford — not a double.

When Redford, Bo Svenson and Susan Sarandon climb out of the cockpits and cling precariously to wing struts, braving wind and turbulence, the camera is actually photographing them at heights of 2,000-3,000 feet. In the aerial dogfight sequences, the adversaries are Robert Redford and Bo Brundin themselves.

Waldo Pepper's experiences in single-engine planes were common to most barnstormers. The stunts that he performs were the stock thrills offered to paying customers in air circuses throughout the country.

The movie shows wing-to-wing plane transfers in mid-air, a pickup by rope ladder from a moving automobile, wing-walking, the body-jarring inside loop and dog fights patterned on the deadly aerial ballets of World War I.

A fly-through, when a plane swoops down on a small midwest town and flies along its main street, was the toughest aerial stunt of my career," commented Frank Tallman.

"This one flight took more than 30 seconds and I had to be on the lookout constantly for cross-currents at street corners, the pedestrian who ignored orders to stay in a doorway, or people who craned their necks from upper story windows to watch what was going on. There wasn't more than three feet of free space between the wing tips and the buildings at any time," he said.

Three panning cameras, two remote cameras and an Eymo camera mounted on the side of the plane were used to film Waldo Pepper's flight down Main Street.

With one of the largest collections of vintage planes in the world, Tallmantz Aviation is equipped to meet Hollywood's needs for any airplane ever made. For "The Great Waldo Pepper," Frank Tallman and his associates supplied two 1917 original Jennys, two camera planes for filming aerobatics, a crash plane, and 13 air vehicles, including a Fokker Triplane and a British Sopwith Camel for flying circus scenes.

The plane in which Tallman flew down the main street of Elgin, Texas, was an original J-1 Standard. Other Standards and some Jennys were used by Tallman for the aerial circus sequences. All were originals, carefully maintained and pitched up over the years by Tallman. Most of the planes were powered by their original engines despite hundreds of thousands of miles and thousands of air-hours logged.

Photography was done in Southwest Texas after a period of preproduction filming and rehearsals at San Marcos Airfield, where a hangar protected planes and provided space for cover sets during bad weather. Earlier, unit production manager Lloyd Anderson traveled more than 8,000 miles to find clear skies and locales within reasonable distances of one another.

More than 20 different locales were used, among them Lockhart Municipal Airfield, where the Lincoln Air Show was staged; New Sweden for a dazzling shot of Waldo Pepper's plane moving past a church steeple; and the San Marcos Airfield for the Munice Air Show sequence and spectacular stunts involving the stars.

Others were Zuehl Air Force Base for the transfer of Waldo from a moving Lincoln touring sedan to a rope ladder dropped from his own plane; Sutherland Springs for the moment in which Axel's plane crashes into a pond; and the town of Elgin, where Frank Tallman executed his unprecedented plane flight through the main street.

Elgin, with its 70-foot-wide main street and old brick structures, required alteration by Hollywood specialists before filming. Universal Pictures paid to have cross-street power lines placed underground to erase the symbols of modernity.

Striped awnings, old-fashioned street lights (replacing today's sodium vapor lights), a theater marquee proclaiming Hoot Gibson in "Saddle Tramp," weathered facades concealing contemporary architecture, signs and posters from a bygone era changed Elgin back to the 1920s. Cars and trucks of the period were assembled by transportation captain Jack Lloyd from members of Texas Antique Car Clubs.

George Roy Hill filmed the early Hollywood section of the story at Universal Studios. He photographed the aerial dogfight between Robert Redford and Bo Brundin at Piru, Calif., then moved his troupe to Sebring, Fla., for the continuation of the climactic duel in the skies.

"The Great Waldo Pepper" is Hill's first film since he won an academy award as best director for "The Sting." The Directors Guild of America has honored Hill for the outstanding directorial achievement of the year.

Hill has also directed "Thoroughly Modern Millie," "Hawaii," "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," and "Slaughterhouse-Five."

Editing was done by William Reynolds, A.C.E., who won an award for editing "The Sting." Cinematographer Robert Surtees had filmed aerial stunt dramas in 1926 featuring exhibition aviators Waldo Pepper was based on.

Henry Mancini, Academy Award winning composer, composed the musical score and conducted the orchestra during scoring sessions for the film.

Associate producer Robert L. Crawford filmed the Emmy-winning documentary on the production of "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

Production designer Henry Bumstead, set decorator Jim Payne and costume designer Edith Head all won Oscars for the "The Sting."

Still photographs were provided by the Hatfield History of Aeronautics.

Yvonne De Carlo in 'Applause'

SAN BERNARDINO — Yvonne De Carlo, film, stage and television star, has been signed to star in San Bernardino Civic Light Opera's forthcoming production of the multi-Tony Award winning Broadway musical, "Applause."

Ginger Rogers was originally scheduled to star in "Applause," but because of extenuating circumstances will not be able to do so, according to C. Dale Jenks, Civic Light Opera general manager.

"We are extremely fortunate to be able to secure the talents of Miss De Carlo, who has been busy between stage and film assignments," said Jenks.

"Applause," the musical version of the Academy Award winning film, "All About Eve," and winner of seven Tony Awards, including "Best Musical of the Season," opens for a limited engagement, May 9 through May 17, at the California Theatre of Performing Arts in San Bernardino.

Miss De Carlo, whose first major film success was "Salome, Where She Danced," has appeared on the silver screen with a host of film's noted leading men, including Alec Guinness, Peter Ustinov, Burt Lancaster, Rock Hudson, Clark Gable, Howard Keel, George Hamilton, Charlton Heston, and John Wayne.

Her numerous films have included "The Ten Commandments," "McLintock," "Band of Angels," "The Greatest Story Ever Told," and "Scarlet Angel." She will be seen soon in three new films to be released this summer, starring opposite Anthony Newley and Isaac Hayes.

In addition to her many appearances in television movies, Miss De Carlo starred in the highly successful TV series, "The Munsters."

On stage, she was hailed by critics for her triumphant role in the Broadway musical, "Follies," which also played at the Shubert Theatre in Los Angeles. She also starred in "No, No, Nanette," "Destry Rides Again," "Pal Joey," "Hello Dolly," and "Little Me."

Tickets for "Applause" are now on sale and can be purchased at the Civic Light Opera Box Office, 2079 North E Street, San Bernardino, phone 882-2545; all Mutual Agencies; and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Annual Girl Scouts delegate's meet

Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council's annual delegate's meeting convened recently at Jane Sato of Upland was presented the Girl Scout's "Green Angel" award during the annual delegate meeting of the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council. Mrs. Sato has been an active scout for 10 years serving as a leader, consultant, press representative and trainer.

the Temple Beth Ami in West Covina.

About 200 adult scouts were on hand for the event including 168 delegates who acted on various ballot measures and the election of council board and nominating committee members and national convention delegates.

Dot Hawk and Ginger Miller led group singing during the pre-meeting registration and coffee hour.

Pat Newton, council president, welcomed the assemblage and introduced members of Cadette troop 700 led by Jeri Roseboro. Penny Hunt, Diane Krause, Stacy Roseboro, Shelly Warnick and Christine and Melinda Wong presented the flag ceremony. Rabbi Henry E. Kraus, Ph.D. gave an inspirational message and welcomed the scouts to the temple.

Mrs. Newton presented the "state of the council" address. She commended the senior scouts who sponsored the annual "Walk For Palomar" recently, with 300 Girl Scouts completing the entire 20-mile trek from the Covina Scout House. The president also presented a Palomar land deed to Glendora Neighborhood for their second half-acre earned by troops. Mary Lou Salyer, service team chairman, accepted the deed. An especially engraved plaque was presented to Hugh Crombie of Pomona, who is treasurer of the council board, by Mrs. Newton who expressed appreciation of his "continuing good counsel and dedication to this responsibility."

A light note was added midway through the business segment of the meeting when the Little Theatre Players, directed by Katie Jimenez of Hacienda Heights, performed a skit about adults-in-scouting.

Barbara L. Powers, executive director, spoke briefly to the group before installing the newly elected members to the various council positions.

Adult officers serve voluntarily. There are those, however, who serve beyond the duties required for their positions. A number of these dedicated volunteers were recognized with special awards during the council meeting. Introductions of the awards recipients were made by Cheryl Swanson, field director and Cathy Trout, assistant adviser to senior troop 202. The duo provided a guitar medley of familiar tunes with words changed to announce the presentations.

The "Thanks Badge" is Girl Scouting's highest award and is reserved for those whose service has been outstanding over a period of years and has benefited the entire council. It is given to recognize service that has been so far beyond the "call of duty" that no other award would be appropriate. Three such presentations were made during the delegate's meeting to Linda Lee of Whittier, Marilyn Terle of San Dimas and Betty Huhn of Covina.

The "Green Angel Award" is reserved for dedicated individuals whose service has greatly enriched program for girls and has been of inspirational quality. The following "Green Angels" were feted:

Jane Sato and Noralie Clinton of Upland, Pat Garrison of La Verne, Vera Reeves and Jean Grochowski of Whittier, Nancy Merino of South Whittier and Bev Conway of Hacienda Heights.

Noralie Clinton of Upland, left, receives the "Green Angel" scouting award from Sara Weber, first vice president of the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council during the annual delegate meeting held recently. Mrs. Clinton has worked as a leader and consultant at the troop level and is currently serving as district chairman.

Girls' camp experiences highlighted

Cabin camping in the snow at Twin Valleys was a highlight of Junior Troop 1112 in the Hiland Neighborhood of the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council last month.

Twin Valleys is a council-owned property. The girls entertained on both nights for each patrol to earn a dramatics badge. During the day they went sledding and sliding, built a snow lady, made dough beads and gathered bark for a necklace.

Packing out on Sunday over the snow and ice was an adventure for the girls.

The girls are now busy making plans to attend the junior camporee, planning their court of awards, fly-up, and visiting Universal Studios in May.

Troop leaders are Mrs. S. Dennis Cowden and Mrs. Melvin D. Dresp. Adults helping with the troop outings are Mrs. Jerry Frederickson, Jerry Frederickson, Joseph Melnikoff, S. Dennis Cowden and Robert Vert.

Pottery exhibit planned

"Pottery of the Southwest American Indians," an exhibit of Indian ceramic plates, jars, bowls, pitchers and figures, will be displayed in the Clark Humanities Museum at Scripps College, 10th and Columbia, from April 16-30.

Most of the items in the exhibit are from the private collection of Claremont Graduate School student Rick Dillingham. Dillingham last year collected many of the ceramics, which range in age from pre-historic times to today, for an extensive show at the Maxwell Museum of Anthropology at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque. He wrote a book-catalog for that show entitled "Seven Families in Pueblo Pottery" which will be available for the Clark Museum exhibit.

Dillingham, a ceramist who employs many of the same techniques as did the Indians, will give a slide lecture in conjunction with the exhibit at 8 p.m. April 18 in the Humanities Auditorium at Scripps.

The public is invited to attend the slide lecture and to visit the exhibit free of charge. Museum hours are from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Campsites filling fast for holidays

State Park campsite reservations are still available for the Memorial Day weekend, according to State Parks Director Herbert Rhodes, but a number of campgrounds, particularly in the southern and central coastal regions, are already fully reserved for the nights of May 23 through 25.

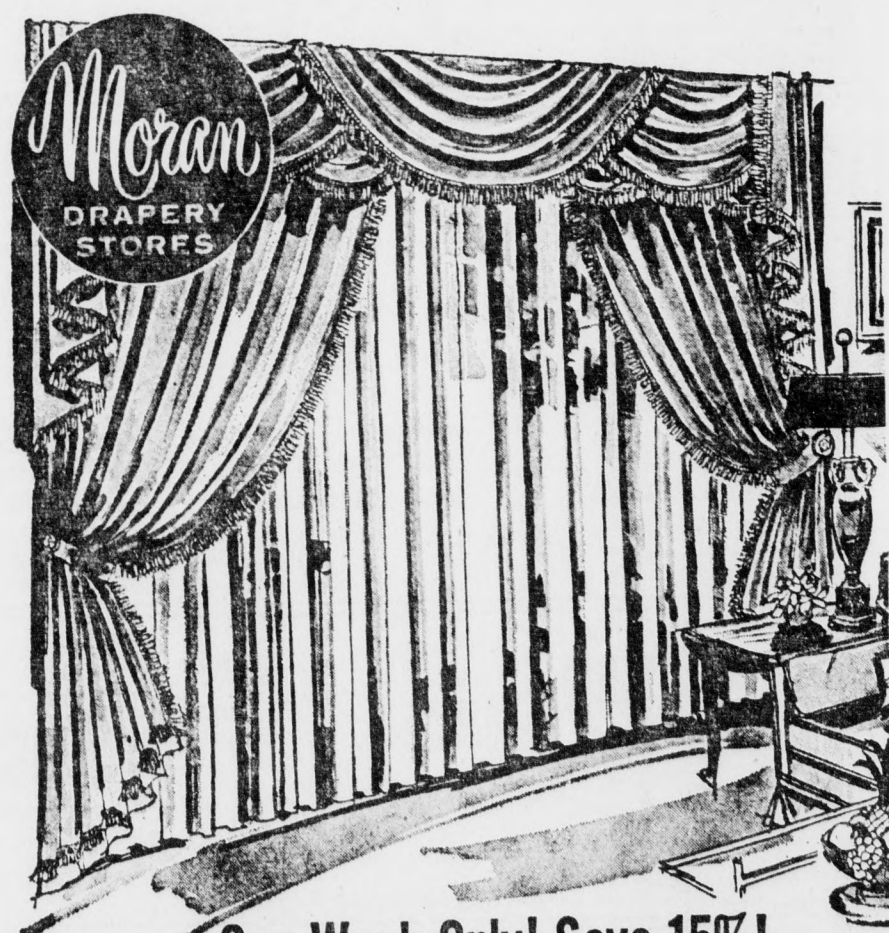

Campers may still make reservations for that weekend at nearly all inland and north coast state park units. However, Rhodes said, those who want to camp out during the Memorial Day holiday should decide immediately where they want to camp and then make reservations as soon as possible. If they wait, they may have to take second, third, or fourth choices. If they take their chances on finding a campsite without a reservation, they may have to return home for the weekend.

It is time also to make campsite reservations for early summer and even for the Fourth of July weekend.

You can reserve state park campsites as early as 90 days in advance or as late as Monday for the following weekend at any of the more than 150 Ticketron offices in stores and other business places throughout California. To learn the location of the nearest Ticketron outlet, in San Diego, call (714) 565-9947; in Los Angeles, call (213) 670-1242; in San Francisco, call (415) 788-2828 and in Sacramento, call (916) 445-8828.

Rhodes urged vacationers to plan camping for midweek if possible, Sunday through Thursday nights, and to spread their vacations around the year as much as possible and avoid the summer and holiday crushes.

Nature of Business/Job Requirements _____

If you're not in charge of hiring and firing in your company, give this ad to someone who is.

Look around your company and just notice who your fellow-workers are.

Chances are, they're pretty well suited for the jobs they're doing. (After all, they've been trained, educated and hired according to their capabilities and skills.)

But, chances are, not one of your fellow-workers is handicapped. And this is unfortunate, because handicapped people have very specific skills and capabilities, too.

They're trained accountants. Managers. Technicians. Industrial designers. Secretaries. Computer programers. Salespeople. Both white collar workers and blue.

Right now, thousands of them are out of work. And the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation in your state is determined to do something about it.

Once the Department has carefully evaluated a person's disabilities, helped him develop new skills and seen to it that he has gotten the best education and training available, its most difficult task is still ahead: To place him in a job that allows him to fulfill his capabilities, skills and training.

And this is where you come in. If you are not in a position to hire these people, talk to someone who is.

Tell him that rehabilitated people—people who have made it the hard way—have greater determination and drive than most people.

Tell him that they will stay on the job and help your company grow.

Tell him that we will personally follow up and re-evaluate all employees we place with your company.

And tell him to write to your state's Director of Vocational Rehabilitation at his office in your state capital.

RARE ETCHINGS — Los Angeles collector Bernard Kishner, who obtained these unique quartzite plaques from contacts among the natives in the back country of Brazil, has loaned the pieces to the Natural History Museum, Exposition Park, Los Angeles, for the first showing anywhere. The rare etchings of nature, created over millions of years, are now on exhibit at the museum, 900 Exposition Blvd.

Danny Kaye to do musical magic

When Danny Kaye steps onto the vastness of New York's Metropolitan Opera stage for his one-hour special, "Texaco Presents Danny Kaye's Look-In At The Metropolitan Opera," on CBS-TV, Sunday, April 27, his audience will see him perform magic.

Danny will, for example, produce weather at his command. Thunder, lightning and storm clouds will appear — presto — on the huge cyclorama. He will show, using scenery from the opera, "Otello," two ships at sea being buffeted by the Kaye-made storm, bursting into flame and finally, capsizing and sinking. And if that were not enough, Kaye will also produce a blizzard, a blizzard that will blanket the enormous stage — 54' x 146'. The snow is made by a machine that punches holes in white paper.

All this is part of the backstage tour Kaye's "Look-In" will provide its audience, a rare opportunity to observe first hand the complex procedures in bringing an opera to life. To show this, the more than 400 performers, musicians, artisans, technicians, stagehands and administrators who make up the complete Met opera company, will fall into line behind Danny as he walks downstage. It will be a long line.

Along with weather effects and the entire opera personnel itself, Danny will reveal other behind-the-scenes activities. As he claps his hands, panels will drop down from the flyspace above. Jigsaw-like, they will fit together to create a stage setting.

There'll be other revelations, Kaye, who says his special is designed for children of all ages, from 6 to 60, will do "magic" tricks with the Met's complex electronic and mechanical equipment. One of them will have a spotlight, frisking about like a puppy, following his antic master — Danny — around the stage. In another sequence, Danny will clown with the opera prompter, the unsung and unsinging hero of so many opera performances.

Some of the Met's most famous stars will perform on the program.

The City Council of the City of Upland does hereby order that the following SECTION 1. Section 910.114 - C (2) of the Upland Municipal Code is hereby deleted.
 SECTION 2. Section 910.109 - K - 1 - (g) is hereby amended by read as follows:

(g) NON CONFORMING SIGNS
 (1) Any legal advertising structure or legal sign (constructed or installed in pursuance to a Building Permit issued prior to the effective date of Ordinance No. 867 (i.e. 4 February 1970), except billboards, non-apurtenant, or other off-premises outdoor advertising structures) may be continued and maintained as erected for so long as the sign is maintained in a neat, attractive manner, and in good condition and repair as determined by the Chief Building Official. However, prior to the expiration of a five (5) year period subsequent to the effective date of Ordinance No. 867 (i.e. prior to 4 February 1975) in the event that the business to which the nonconforming sign or signs apply is sold, the person purchasing said business shall bring all such signs into full compliance with this Article prior to the expiration of five (5) years subsequent to the date on which the business license is issued to the person owning or operating the business to which the sign is appurtenant. When the five (5) year period subsequent to the effective date of Ordinance No. 867 has expired, in the event that the business to which the nonconforming sign or signs apply is sold, the person purchasing said business shall bring all such signs into full compliance with this Article prior to the expiration of one hundred eighty (180) days subsequent to the date upon which the business license is issued to the person owning or operating the business to which the sign is appurtenant.

(2) Any billboard, non-apurtenant or other off-premises outdoor advertising structure which lawfully exists may be continued provided no structural alterations are made thereto and that all such nonconforming billboards, non-apurtenant or other off-premises outdoor advertising structures and their supporting members shall be amortized and be entirely removed from the premises by 4 February 1985. During the interim period, said nonconforming billboard, non-apurtenant or other off-premises outdoor advertising structures shall be maintained and kept in good repair and visual appearance.
